

THE PHILOSOPHICAL APPEAL OF SYNTONICS II*

A Review after Twenty-Seven years

In October, 1932, Dr. H. Riley Spitler asked me to write a paper on THE PHILOSOPHICAL APPEAL OF SYNTONICS. This paper was prepared and read before the First Assembly of Syntonists in the Van Cleve Hotel at Dayton, Ohio, in January, 1933. The original concept has never been altered, but, in collaboration principally with Dr. D. L. Gallagher, it has been greatly enlarged over the years.

Since November, 1911, I have known Dr. Spitler and have been intimately acquainted with him over all the years since then. All my Life, it appears to me, I have been reading history to learn what has happened; and all his life, it also appears to me, Dr. Spitler has been delving into science to determine why things happen as they do, and all through the years much midnight oil was burned in our bull sessions designed to reveal what made the universe tick. Herodotus, Tacitus, Livy, Gibbon, Macaulay all are great historians and clearly tell what happened as they understood what happened about not a single one even attempts to say why, things happened as they did – only the modern, Toynbee, attempts to tell why, and Toynbee falls back into mysticism that tells no more than the others. So we find historians without science, and scientists without history, and neither with any philosophy until you come to Spitler who has an insight into these matters and suggested that the interpretation be made as carried out in my paper. And so Syntonics began to reveal the whys of history and of every other activity of life on this planet.

All theories – and this hypothesis is a theory – as well as buildings must have a foundation; in either incident if the foundation be faulty the structure comes tumbling down. Therefore this theory is founded upon the Von Beyer theory of the origin of life which theory it appears is founded on the Law of Grotthus. Based on this Law the Von Beyer theory projects the supposition that life had its origin when elements in solution, in the presence of a catalysis were sparked into life by the radiant energy of the sun; the elements in combustion of the sun activating the elements in suspension of the earth when in a state of solution in the presence of a catalysis.

Therefore we may say that the Sun is the positive, the Male element, and that the Earth is the negative, or Female element; that the passive ovum of the earth is sparked into life by the flying arrows, or sperm, of the sun. Thereafter all evolution of life has its being in the phases of these energies and materials out of which they had their birth. Are we having new species created on the planet? If not, why not? Could it be that the ORIGIN OF LIFE BAND of the solar spectrum is now denied admission to the surface of the earth that did not exist in past ages?

We learn that the actinic rays of the sun, the high frequencies, predominate in the tropics because they most effectively reach the earth only when penetrating the atmosphere at a perpendicular to its surface, and that therefore the low frequencies dominate the high latitudes because of their ability to penetrate the atmosphere when striking its surface obliquely. Here we the primary factors, although the complexity of their functions may be infinite.

Now Syntonics teaches that the Sympathetic nervous system and the pituitary, the gland of intellectual activity, the thyroid, the gland of energy production, the adrenals, the glands of offense and defense of hate and rage, and the gonads are all stimulated by the low frequencies, the frequencies dominating the high latitudes and are correspondently depressed by the high frequencies,. It also teaches that the thyroid, the thymus, and the adrenals are stimulated by the high frequencies and correspondently depressed by the low frequencies, as is the para-sympathetic nervous system.

It may be said that all life on the earth is activated by the radiant energy of the sun, but life on the earth is not dependent on the direct reception of these energies through the atmosphere; these energies from the sun impregnated the elements of the earth and in solution are carried by the ocean currents and by the winds to places far from their origin. Early in these studies, in 1931 I think, the question of rickets in colored people living in the north came up, the rickets being caused by a lack of proper elements in the dark people from the lesser sunshine in the north and the darkness of the skin of the person involved denying the penetration of the necessary rays; and I said, if that is the case are the Esquomos, a dark people living in a Latitude where they have only six months of sun each year, riddled with rickets. And Dr. Spittler said, no, the Esquomo lives out of the sea and the sea is the universal depository of all the elements – let the negro in the north take cod liver oil for his rickets.

In the study of history it becomes apparent that all the civilizations that the earth has known – with the possible exception of the Egyptian whose origin is lost in antiquity – had their origin in the migration of peoples from above North Latitude 50 or 55 and embraced in that part of the earth between Norway and Japan – a six thousand mile wide section of the earth cut off from the flow of universal elements by frozen seas on the North and by lines of east-west mountain is not, and constantly bombarded by unneutralized low frequencies. Long stimulate the pituitary, thyroid, adrenals and gonads of the a tribe or nation without neutralization elements and they multiply and grow strong physically and intolerably over-stimulated mentally – and a time will come when they instinctively take off in a migration that will bring them surcease in the high frequencies toward the tropics, toward the sun and toward the seas.

The Manchus came down out of Manchuria into China to found a new civilization on the foundations of an old; the Aryans out of the North into India; the Hittites our of the North into Asia Minor; the Medes out of the North into Persia; the Greeks, in waves after waves, out of the North into Greece; the Romans out of the North into Italy; the Goths, Visgoths, Lombards, Franks, Anglo-Saxons, Danes and Normans out of Germany, Norway, Sweden and Denmark to over-run the roman Empire. The Turks came all the way from Siberia. In our own time the Japs strike straight for the East India and Malaya. About 500 to 1000 years after these wild migrations out of the North into a more equable clime and a mixing of their blood with a more equable people and the descendents of these migrations begin to produce a more equable people and the descendents of these migrations begin to produce genius for a time, and then begin to peter out – and once petered out they never revive. About 500 to 1000 years after the Medes came into Persia they began to produce genius; 500 1000 years after the Greeks came down we had a Golden Age in Greece; 500 to 1000 years after the Romans came over the mountains and the Roman Republic began to appear; 500 to 1000 years after the over-running of the Roman Empire genius began to appear in Italy, Spain, France and England and they began to strive for World Empire. And where are they today? Two waves of the new German migration have about wrecked them.

The migrating peoples producing the greatest civilizations appear to be those who had their origin not too far North in the interior or close to the bordering seas, like those that came out of Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Germany. Those migrations that came out of the deep interior of Asia, those people cut off from the high frequencies of the sun and from the neutralizing qualities of the surrounding seas, came out with such horrible ever-charging effects of low frequencies that they became the scourge of the earth and God, burning themselves out in their mad forays – Ghenghis Khan, Tammerlane, Attila, the Mongols and the Huns.

The Germans had little part in the Renaissance civilizations – after all Germany had furnished the bulk of the migrating Franks and Anglo-Saxons; Germany was wracked and consumed by internal wars and did not participate in the dividing up of the earth as the other renaissance powers fought each other for domination. But by 1866 Germany, broken up by the Treaty of Westphalia, took a province from Denmark, in 1868 added Austro-Hungary to her power block, in 1871 beat France, and in 1914 came migrating out to challenge the world! What was this but the super-charge Germans going on another migrating rampage as the one that finally overrun the Roman Empire? Oh, no, we had no quarrel with the German people, Wilson told us, just kick the Keiser out and we would make good democrats out of the German people – Oh, Yeah, and twenty years later have the Germans come out stronger than ever under a paper hanger! How silly can we get.

The tropics, dominated by the depressing effects of the high frequencies, have produced no migrations, no civilizations, no genius; and the overflow of the great migrations descending into the tropics have, historically speaking, quickly deteriorated to leave a population of mongrels, and of the people of the great migrations who went farthest south the Vandals into Carthage, where the first to disappear from history. Of the nations that grew out of the great migrations that over-run the Roman Empire the first to deteriorate was Italy, then Spain then France, and now under the last two waves of a rampaging German again, England.

Where do we, us Americans of the United States, stand in this ever-changing rise and fall of empires. We are the recipients of the flung torch of the civilization of the last migrating wave to over-run the Roman Empire – the Norman invasion of England. We are the tail end of that Norman Conquest and we conquered a continent for ourselves, and in World Wars I and II wrecked six or seven great Empires – and set one up against us, Russia. Now Russia is as much under the diving throes of a migrating urge as sent the Huns over the earth; an interior land-locked people, supercharged and mad with excess of low frequencies; she will come out – so will she come out so raving insane that she will destroy herself as did the Huns, and ourselves too, or if she wins and survives will she have enough stabilizing elements in her madness to settle down in a milder clime and some 500 years hence begin to produce genius in the time honored manner? We are ourselves war loving people, we can't have fought four hot and one cold war in fifty years without loving war – but are we as war like as we used to be, when we were the inheritors of the Norman tradition? We had a philosophy that what was good for us people of the northern tradition would be good for anyone coming here to snare our blessings? But was and is it? We have blended ourselves up with a lot of people who never produced out of their own brains a government like our own, and who by their vote are showing they don't like the old we produced and are endeavoring to change it more by their hearts desire. Is it because we are a little too far south Syntonically for our own good and self-preservation and survival? Only time will tell. But in the long run a far-south country on the defensive has never conquered and has always been over-run. Maybe our philosophy of not hitting first, of not hitting at all until we are dangerously crippled, as Pearl Harbor will have something to say about our ultimate survival. And that philosophical factor is a Syntonic factor as surely as the sun was Spain's undoing.

The North has produced only war-like and Sadistic-type religions – out of the crying necessity for activity produced by a supercharge of low frequencies in all their diverse effects came Gods of War, and of peoples so driven you might kill them but you could never otherwise stop them when they went on their migrating rampages. Toward the south and toward the seas in regions more dominated by the high frequencies we got our Masochist-type religions – our Buddhas and our Christs; people who take pleasure in “rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's” – we will give ourselves up to slavery in this world, but if we believe we'll be happy after we are dead! In 1914 the Germans said Gott Mit Uns and not so finding Him, in 1939, when they recommenced their migration under a paper hanger, they found Christianity incompatible with their migration-driven necessity and tossed this religion out the window. The Russians began their present migration drive by destroying Christianity; the Russians can't be hampered by a depressing religion. Christianity in the Western World has always been associated with great and little wars, but because it was inherited by the great migrating waves out of the God War North which never allowed their adopted Masochist religion to infringe upon their warlike instincts, right down to the present time. . Is Mr. Nehru's idealism and pacifism a matter of the sun and the tropical elements of the Indian Ocean, and what will these things avail him against the godless Chinese out of the North and the Mongols from over Khyber Pass?

Men, animals, birds, having had their origin in the inter-play of energies have their evolution in the multiple diversity of these energies. Thus men are dominated by energies above and beyond their conscious ability as yet to control. A man once said to me that he could control all his physical and mental functions merely by thinking; I could have said to him, come up to my office and set in front of my Syntonicizer and I'll raise your blood pressure 25 millimeters in 6 minutes regardless of what you think. Out in British Columbia, east of the Rocky Mountains, bear, elk, deer, etc. suffer from goiter, cut off as they are by the mountains from the iodine bearing winds from the Pacific Ocean. Right here in Ohio we live in a goiter belt; and we don't supply our lack of iodine by thinking alone. For these reasons any people possessing a philosophy having its origin south of North Latitude 50 or 55 are at a terrific disadvantage to a people who possess a philosophy having its origin North of North Latitude 50 or 55 – in the long run, and it may be a very long run (it was 300 years between the time the Romans withdrew the first Legion from the Scottish border before the last Roman left England due to the continental pressure on the Empire from the barbarians from the North) the Masochist philosophy of the South gives way before he migration-driven Sadism pervading the hordes from the North. Remember that the basic philosophy that activates a people is not something that they merely thought up but is a power deriving from their basic instincts forced upon them by their total Syntonic environment; and if a Masochist-type philosophy is adopted by a Sadistic-type people the Masochist-type philosophy will dominate these people only after the Sadistic-type philosophy has been bred out of them from having lived too long too near the sun – too near the depressing blues that dominate toward the tropics.

In his column of March 13, 1959, Sokolsky quotes Eugene Lyons, Russian authority and senior editor of the “The Readers Digest” as follows: “The real enigma is why we who are earmarked for conquest prefer to kid ourselves that communism can somehow be bought off, or contained, or induced to commit suicide by suddenly renouncing global conspiracy and world dominion. We behave as if this were a conventional disagreement between nations – a question of territory and markets and colonies, as in the past. But it’s nothing of the kind. What’s involved is the ‘permanent revolution’ unleashed by Lenin, promoted with increasing zeal and increasing success by all his successors. And we’re doomed to defeat as long as we subsist on political tranquilizers.” Sounds as if it might have been written by a Syntonic historian, doesn’t it? But Mr. Lyons, like all the others, has names for things, for activities, but never names the power from which the activities had their origin. Leninism, Marxism, the permanent revolution, are the mere handles given activities; the cause of the activities are exactly the same causes that sends the lemmings migrating, and that has sent every migration wave out of the North since time began – Syntonic factors dominating environment. The Russian Marxism blather and the German ‘Dutch over Allies’ are the mere handles of these migrating hordes as was the “On to Jerusalem” a handle of the Crusaders, who were nothing more nor less than a continuation of the migration factors that drove their ancestors down out of the Red North.

Nations, peoples, of the origin-of-civilizations-or-the-destroyers-of-civilizations-group, are always in a state of producing the births of monstrous migrations or in a quiescent state of rest or recovery following such births – gathering their forces for a new migration wave perhaps. What is frightening to the American of the United States, Syntonically, is that our Manifest Destiny philosophical period appears to have come to a sudden stop with the Spanish-American War, since that time we have fought holding wars only, in World War I, in World War II and in the Korean War – in our Cold War, too. A holding war, Syntonically, is symbolical of retreat, of deterioration – Rome never expanded, and began to lose what she had, when she began to fight holding wars. Our danger lies not in the possibility of being over-run by so-called backward countries of the low Latitudes that have been materially benefitted, perhaps, by the promptings of our philosophy, but by the inability to understand the cause of the ravaging-jawed migration monsters that have again raised their heads in the North that, if we are to be preserved, should have been crushed, annihilated, in their hour of birth. But without migrations from the Red North maybe no more civilizations raising their fair columns above the ruins of our old rotted down forms. Maybe the whole thing is a senseless interplay of energies; maybe someone wiser than we is directing the show for purpose beyond our understanding. It isn’t for me to say

In the meantime it is a fact that we go on living in a world where all political and other decisions are predicated effects rather than on causes. The Russians adopt the German Marxism as the handle to an effect whose cause they do not attempt to analyze or name. Our defensive moves are predicated on the assumption that an effect can be countered by an opposing effect; we have no philosophy at all to cover the over-all picture. Our sacred cow sciences, of course, are of no aid here. Mills, Director of Medical Research, University of Cincinnati, writes a book, CLIMATE MAKES THE MAN. Yet nowhere in this book does he indicate that Light is a factor in climate! Furthermore, when I call this to his attention, he writes me that “science does not admit that light will do what you say it will”. Now if that is true Spittler has wasted a whole lifetime of research, and you and I are just twittering monkeys on the Spittler tree. I don’t believe we are, but that is what science, as interpreted by Dr. Mills, has to say about it.

Then for some other science right down our alley see TRUE for April, 1948, and an article on Bissonnette, Temple University, entitled THE LIGHT OF LOVE. Bissonnette, by the application of light frequencies causes raccoons to come into PRIME fur and the BREEDING SEASON in mid-August, where in nature the raccoon comes into prime fur in the winter time and the breeding season in February only! Bissonnette, in the article, appears to indicate that he does not know why these changes in raccoons are affected. I write him some of the conclusions I have come to through the study of Syntonics and history and he writes me “I do not know what you are talking about”.
