ESOGETICS

Esogetics is a term coined by Peter Mandel to describe his system of healing. The term "Esogetic" is intended to describe this system which combines "esoteric knowledge (the ancient wisdom theories of humanity, old philosophies and handed-down traditional therapeutic methods) with the "energetic" understanding of the body (derived from Chinese medicine, empirical research and the latest findings of modern biophysics.)

Esogetics is based on the premise that we are all born with a unique life path or program which we have an inner urge to fulfill. Our bodies are the means by which we move toward our goal. Energy-information in the body is what helps us move toward our goal.

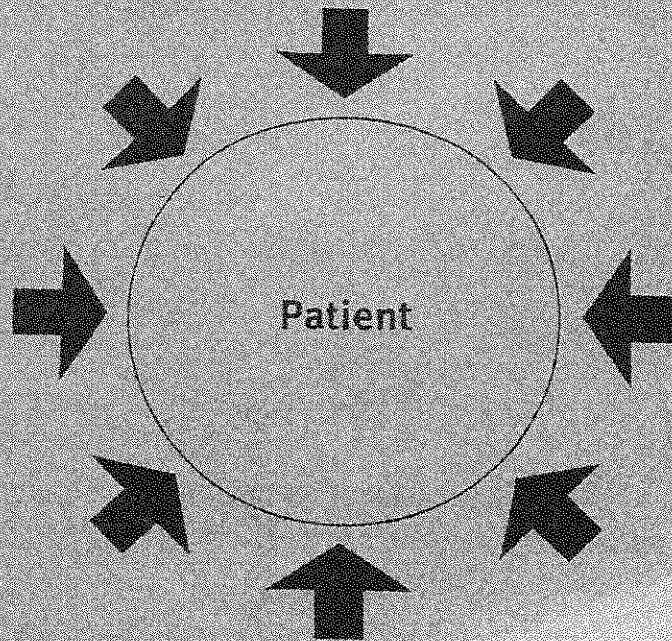

Ultimately, illness and pain are the result of having wandered off our life path or being blocked in one's ability to manifest one's life potential. Pain and disease are an impulse or signal for change. Giving color to the body means giving pure information which helps guide the information pattern of the person in the direction that is appropriate for him or her. In this way, light is used to support the healing of the whole person.

"We, who are imprisoned in matter have to bring our 'I' out of matter and darkness and into the light On the level of the spiritual world, we humans, in our wholeness, are light-beings. We must, and always will, develop toward the absolute light, which we call God. In this process, we are accompanied by light on the outside and, if we allow it, by light as well on the inside."

Primary colours – complementary colours

LAW OF COMPLIMENTARY RADIATION:

Complimentary colors are used in Esogetic Colorpuncture to balance the body's energy flow. Bilateral points are treated with warm and cool color pairs according to the law of complimentary radiation. The most painful point is radiated first with the cool color, and then the less painful point is radiated next with the warm color.

Signification of colours

Red

Red is the colour of fire. It is the colour of the burning, radiant sun, and of life itself. Both love and anger, joy and wrath are associated with this colour. Red is the colour of with the greatest power of penetration and will strongly stimulate the flow of blood. For this reason it is indicated for cases of poor circulation and insufficient blood supply. Red is the colour of the heart, the lungs and the muscles. It is the right colour for the treatment of non-suppurating wounds and inflammations, as well as skin diseases, chronic coughs, asthma, laryngeal complaints, anemia, weeping eczema and frostbite. It loosens the tongue, has a cheering and exciting effect, is stimulating and arouses passion. Red makes lazy people more active. Phlegmatic children may be helped by having them do their homework under red light.

Blue

This is the colour of peace and infinity. It is regarded of being a cold colour, and has a relaxing effect. Blue is the colour of the pituitary gland and the endocrine system. All diseases involving heat require treatment with blue light. This colour is also indicated for complaints involving suppuration, pain, plethora and congestion. Blue has an excellent effects on hemorrhoids. Warts disappear under the effect of radiation with blue light and it is indicated for the treatment of strumata, certain heart diseases, sleeplessness and hemorrhage. Blue affects the testes and is indicated for impotence, frigidity and the menopause. Blue regulates the contraction of the muscles, ligaments and tissues. Hyperactive children should do their homework under blue light. This colour promotes quietness and reserve.

Yellow

Yellow symbolizes the sun standing at ist zenith, and is one of the hot colours. It promotes digestion, strengthens the nerves, stimulates the stomach and has a brightening and cheering effect in general. It fortifies the endocrine system, makes chronic processes acute and is indicated for diseases of the liver, bladder, kidneys and the stomach. Yellow promotes learning and comprehension in children and has a favourable influence on the intellect. All diseases of the digestive tract should be treated with the colour yellow. People who are discontent show a change of facial expression when exposed to yellow light.

Green

Green is the most common colour in nature and is regarded as being a neutral factor. It is indicated for bronchial catarrh, whooping cough and inflammations of the joints (in alternation with blue, in the latter case). All chronic diseases respond well to the intermittent use of green light and precision work can be done better under it. Green is indicated for tumors, ulcers and cysts as well as eye diseases and diabetes. It has a balancing effect and will promote feelings of contentment and tranquility. Green is also sedative, soothing and relaxing in effect.

Orange

Orange is a mixture of red and yellow and is the colour of joy and happiness. It is indicated in cases of discontentment, pessimism, psychosis, depression and fear. Orange should be alternated with blue when treating people suffering from fear, however. All sclerotic processes, such as arteriosclerosis and cerebral and coronary sclerosis respond well to the colour orange. It promotes the appetite and can be used in the treatment of emaciation and anaemia. It is recommended for heart disease in general and cardiac insufficiency in particular. In treating the effects of a heart attack or angina pectoris, however, orange should be alternated with blue, as in the case of fear (see above). Short exposure to orange light in the morning will prove to be of help to people who are chronically tired at this time of day. Orange will increase a sense of ambition and promote warmheartedness. It has a brightening and cheering effect and will lend strength and joy to people who feel disinclined to work.

Violet

Violet has always been associated with spirituality and in accordance, it acts on the unconscious, lends the individual spiritual strength and promotes awareness and consciousness. Violet increases the effect of all kinds of meditation and is also regarded as being the colour of inspiration. It has a positive effect on the spleen and promotes the functioning of the lymphatic system.

Turquoise

The light and dark nuances of the colour „turquoise“ represent the outer and inner coat of the combining, highly transmitting soul. The psychological symptoms, which drive people within subconsciousness into rigidity or stasis, are to be found in the outer coat (dark turquoise). Usually a feeling of relief, pleasure and calmness appears; blissful happiness and contentment, deep breathing and a clear head are being described.

Light Green

This colour, which is composed of yellow and green, promotes the intellectual faculties, strengthens the nerves and has a calming and relaxing effect on the body in general. All diseases treated with yellow, such as ailments of the digestive tract, can be done so in a gentler manner if green light is used. I have also discovered the treatments of the upper ends of the kidneys with green or light green will be very successful in detoxifying the body. Light green is indicated for whooping cough, menopause, inflammation of the nerves, paralysis, kidney diseases, diabetes and all diseases of the digestive tract. Light green - being of a higher nature than green - has exchanged the low natural compulsion into a higher nature and put it up into the sphere of spiritual consciousness. In the colour „light green“ exists infinite safety and peace. It corresponds to the right side of the body.

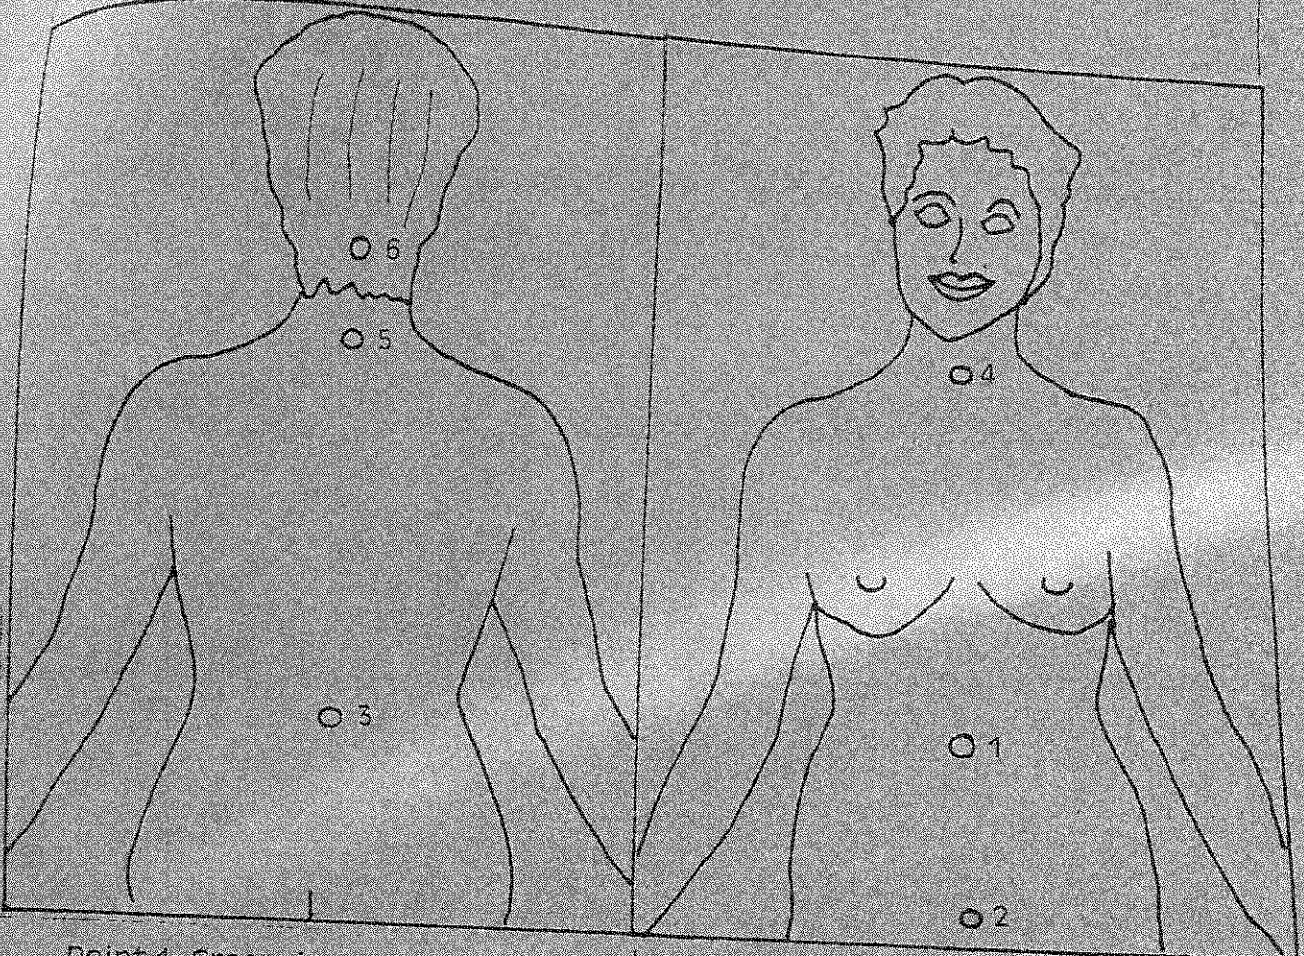

Purple

The colour „purple“ gives the impression of gravity and dignity as well as graciousness and grace. The power over thoughts is hidden within. Being the colour of pure humanity and having power over the blood, „purple“ means transparency of the highest crystallization force. „purple“ as a spiritually complementary colour to „light green“ is the indicator of the absolute inner being that is linked to the programme of life. Reactions on influences from the outside, which closely agree with the innermost being, occur after using „purple“.

Pale Pink

As the 10. colour of colourpuncture, „pale pink“ symbolizes again the beginning due to its position ($10 \div 10 = 1$). It can be useful in finding a new beginning in life. „Pale pink“ is related to the spiritual centre. As all the other colours of the soul-spirit sphere, „pale pink“ has no specific indications. The colour „pale pink“ possesses a special love for being human and carries the secret of spiritual growth within itself.

Treatment Method

1. Pushing Technique - to move energy.
If it clears pain it shows the issue was an energetic block.
2. Using Color - if the pushing technique does not work use color which gives corrective information.
(i.e., get energy flowing first and then give new information - most sensitive points show part of system, which is disturbed).

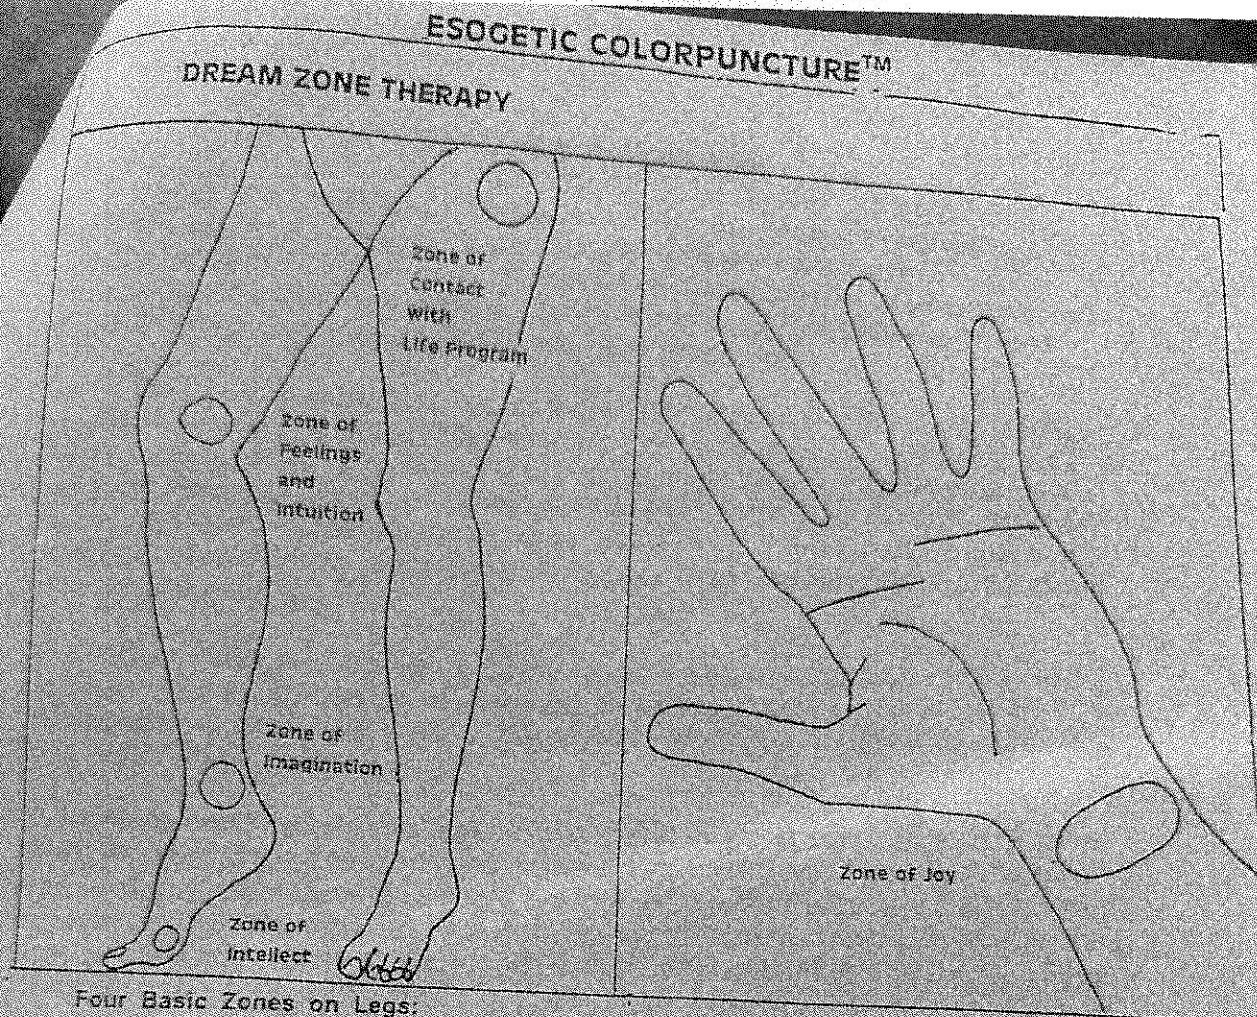

ESOGETIC SOUND PATTERNS

The basis of these sound images is the Esogetic Model developed by Peter Mandel which depicts the connections between the levels of consciousness and of the body. Working in cooperation with music researchers, Mandel transformed the pathways shown in the Esogetic Model into "sound images" using tone sequences and tone combinations.

The sound images work mainly in the psychic realm. They work with the premise that the human brain will react to and process key sound patterns. These sound patterns influence the human being in terms of archetypal and symbolic understanding in the unconscious. The Esogetic Sound Patterns have exact mathematical and musical bases, according to therapeutic suggestions. There are nine of these sound patterns in total. Here are the descriptions of the effects of the first four:

1. Polarity: This sound image helps one to accept life as an ever-changing process. Old things can be let go of more easily and new ones accepted. The experience of 'rest' and 'activity' follow each other in a harmonic flow. Out of this, relaxation happens.
2. Fantasy and Fascination (Regeneration): This sound image supports and furthers the mental process and outer happenings associated with innovation, renewal and reorientation, as might happen at the start of a new life era. The sounds also effect bodily renewal in the sense of regeneration. Especially in periods of strenuous creativity, this sound pattern will promote the highest possible achievement potential.
3. Self Assuredness: Everyone naturally strives for happiness, contentment and harmony in life. This tape helps you reach that goal by pointing you toward your real center. The more we realize our true life path, the more we live out of our real selves, out of our center. With this movement, we develop self assuredness.
4. Vitality: This sound pattern helps us to get in touch with new insights and to develop strength from these realizations. Vitality is strengthened on all levels. The breath flows more deeply. The certainty to face life's challenges -- if only we decide to -- is deepened in us. The confidence in success is stabilized.

Four Basic Zones on Legs:

Zone of Contact with Life Program is located on the side of the hip over the joint area. Color is red. This zone reminds us of what we do and don't do. Shows where we are out of contact with our task. Problem in hips (pain): we go in circles in life. Life isn't going as imagined or hasn't turned out the way we wanted it. Left hip problems = we can't feel our task. Right hip problem = we can't understand our task.

Zone of Feelings and Intuition is located on the inside of the knee. Color is violet. You need this in order to get in touch with program. Treating this zone fortifies the intuition. Helps us understand why we need to live our program.

Zone of Imagination is located over the inner ankle bone. Color is green. Treating this zone helps us to visualize our program. Supports imagination. We need to be able to visualize where we are going.

Zone of Intellect is located on the bone above big toe. Color is yellow. We have to bring the intellect in order to actualize our program. Treating sharpens the intellect, forces the mind to serve the program. Helps with concentration, coordination, learning difficulties, problems with parents. (Bunions show person does not accept their program intellectually.)

NOTE: Treat one zone per night in 4 night sequence starting at hips. Do not combine these zones. Treat left, then right.

Treatment Method: Evening only, massage 3 - 5 drops of oil, rub vigorously - can use locator stick. Apply color by spiraling clockwise in and counterclockwise out...5X in and 5X out. Left side 1st and then Right side. One zone per night. Treat for 8 nites and then break for 4 nites...treat again for 8 nites etc. Can treat for 3 - 6 months.

Zone of Joy is located over the inside wrist area. Color is orange. Can treat this zone in the morning. Can treat daily. Gives a lasting feeling of cheerfulness and optimism, eliminates tension, generates feeling of inner warmth. Helps with morning stiffness in joints. 2 - 3 drops of oil every
